Learning Resources

computer devices with audio-visual recordings of narrations or dramatization of storytelling sessions, resource persons

Organization of Learning

Learning will take place in an actual/virtual classroom.

Learners will work individually, in pairs and small groups using technology collaborative tools like google docs, padlet etc

Introduction

The learner responds to the following question: ‘What do you enjoy most during a storytelling session?’

Lesson Development

Step 1

Perform (or watch live or a recorded oral performance of) a narrative as a class.

The core competency of self-efficacy will be developed as the learners perform or react to the performance.

Step 2: In pairs or groups, learners discuss what they think made the session interesting and write down the points in their note books.

This enhances Life Skills Education as a PCI and more specifically effective communication as the learner makes notes.

Step 3. Learners perform oral narratives in groups while peers watch, record, and then give each other feedback on techniques used.

This enhances communication and collaboration. It also enhances the value of unity as the learner collaborates with peers to perform and record an oral narrative.

Extended Activity

The learner to retell the story as well as lessons learnt from the story to their parents, siblings or peers.

This promotes the value of responsibility as the learner takes up the assigned tasks. It also promotes the PCI of parental engagement and empowerment

Conclusion

Learners are guided to discuss the following question:

How can you become a good storyteller?

How can you integrate story telling in a lesson plan

Reflection

The lesson went on well as learners grasped the concepts as expected. Searching for content online however was slow due to connectivity challenges.
